

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho) on two pages of an old book. The text is organized into vertical columns, with some larger characters and some smaller characters. The right page has a small section of text at the top right that appears to be a separate entry or a note. The left page has a small section of text at the bottom left that appears to be a separate entry or a note. The text is written in black ink on aged, yellowish paper.

